

Madhav Mainali

Mr. Madhav Mainali came to the United States in 2004. He joined the Blood Donors of America, BDA, in 2013 as a life member. He has been living in Huntsville, AL. He feels very comfortable and happy while donating blood, as he knows that blood donation is for saving lives. He started donating blood in 1998 and donated more than thirty times. He wants to encourage all the Nepali community around the globe to donate blood and help saving more lives.

Mr. Mainali was an entrepreneur committee member back in the early days. He has been involved in the NASeA since 2004 as a life member and was in its executive committee in 2013-2015. He has been serving as a BDA state coordinator since 2016.

Mr. Mainali had a different feeling when he first donated blood at maternity home, Thapathali, Kathmandu, Nepal. He was very excited before donating the blood and felt very happy and blissful because it was a life saving matter. At that time, he donated the blood to transfuse to one of his relatives, who was about to die due to over bleeding during delivery and in desperate need of blood. It was the great experience for him and felt proud to save her life, which then encouraged him for future blood donations. His message to the BDA community is to let everyone know how BDA works for people and the importance of blood donation and he would like to encourage everyone to donate at least once a year.
